

Base station battery pack maintenance

Overview

Battery Maintenance: If the backup power system includes batteries, perform regular maintenance tasks such as checking electrolyte levels (for flooded lead-acid batteries), cleaning terminals, and performing capacity tests to ensure optimal performance. What makes a telecom battery pack compatible with a base station?

Compatibility and Installation Voltage Compatibility: 48V is the standard voltage for telecom base stations, so the battery pack's output voltage must align with base station equipment requirements. Modular Design: A modular structure simplifies installation, maintenance, and scalability.

How many batteries does the base station take?

The Base Station takes four (4) 1.2V, 1300mAh nickel-metal hydride (NiMH) rechargeable batteries. Regular alkaline batteries should never be inserted into the Base Station, as they may damage the device. Once you have acquired the necessary NiMH rechargeable batteries, you can follow the steps below to replace them:.

Which battery is best for telecom base station backup power?

Among various battery technologies, Lithium Iron Phosphate (LiFePO₄) batteries stand out as the ideal choice for telecom base station backup power due to their high safety, long lifespan, and excellent thermal stability.

How do you protect a telecom base station?

Backup power systems in telecom base stations often operate for extended periods, making thermal management critical. Key suggestions include:
Cooling System: Install fans or heat sinks inside the battery pack to ensure efficient heat dissipation.
