Overview

Will solar power boost Zambia's generation capacity in 2024?

This shift to solar is reflected on a much larger scale, with the Zambian government partnering with multiple international entities in 2024 to develop solar energy projects aimed at boosting Zambia's generation capacity by more than a third.

What is Zambia's presidential Solar Initiative?

The government's Presidential Solar Initiative aims to improve Zambia's energy mix to at least 30% non-hydro renewables by 2030 – up from 1.2% in late 2024 – marking a significant step toward diversifying Zambia's energy portfolio.

Which countries are developing a solar power plant in Zambia?

The African Development Bank (AfDB) has allocated $8 million for a 25-megawatt solar plant in western Zambia, while a Turkish/Zambian private partnership is developing a 60-megawatt solar plant with battery storage, expected to power 65,000 households by September 2025.

Is Zambia a cautionary tale for solar?

The scramble for solar is emblematic of a broader trend across Africa of an accelerating shift toward renewable energy adoption in response to climate challenges, as Africa bids to bring power to the 600 million people across the continent who don't have electricity. But Zambia also serves as something of a cautionary tale.
