Are rooftop solar photovoltaics deployable in China?

Provided by the Springer Nature SharedIt content-sharing initiative An article in Nature Cities assesses the deployable potential of rooftop solar photovoltaics across Chinese cities, finding that only 42% of the national technical potential is realistically deployable.

How big is China's rooftop solar system?

This was China's largest- ever first-quarter addition. Rooftop solar systems contributed around 36 GW, which is 60% of the total capacity added. This increase in rooftop installations follows new policy guidelines announced in October 2024 by the National Energy Administration (NEA). These guidelines took effect in May 2025.

Can rooftop PV help achieve China's Energy and climate goals?

The research underscores the significant role of rooftop PV in achieving China's energy and climate goals in its northwestern urban centers. In China, more than 75% of electricity is still generated using "dirty" coal, resulting in substantial emissions of NO_x, CO₂, and SO₂ into the environment.

How many solar panels are installed in China?

A recent report by Rystad energy shows that most rooftop systems are being installed for commercial and industrial (C&I) use. The total installed capacity of distributed solar in China is expected to reach 130 GW by the end of the year. This will include about 92 GW from C&I projects and 38 GW from residential users.
